Alzbeimer's Patient's Prayer by Carolyn Haynali

Pray for me I was once like you. Be kind and loving to me that's how I would have treated you. Remember I was once someone's parent or spouse I had a life and a dream for the future.

Speak to me, I can hear you even if I don't understand what you are saying. Speak to me of things in my past of which I can still relate.

Be considerate of me, my days are such a struggle.

Think of my feelings because I still have them and can feel pain. Treat me with respect because I would have treated you that way. Think of how I was before I got Alzheimer's; I was full of life, I had a life, laughed and loved you. Think of how I am now, My disease distorts my thinking, my feelings, and my ability to respond, but I still love you even if I can't tell you.

Think about my future because I used too.
Remember I was full of hope for the future just like you are now. Think how it would be to have things locked in your mind and can't let them out. I need you to understand and not blame me, but Alzheimer's. I still need the compassion and the touching and most of all I still need you to love me.

Keep me in your prayers because I am between life and death. The love you give will be a blessing from God and both of us will live forever.

How you live and what you do today will always be remembered in the heart of the Alzheimer's Patient.

Holiday Tips for Dementia Caregivers By Ava M. Stinnett

Holidays are festive occasions that celebrate being with the people we love, honoring family traditions, recalling old memories, and creating new ones. For caregivers and people living with dementia-related conditions such as Alzheimer's, however, there will come a time when it's just not feasible or practical to do everything you once did. How do we celebrate special occasions when one of the people involved doesn't remember or even understand what the celebration is about? How do caregivers on the dementia journey with a loved one—not just on the holidays, but all day every day—manage to keep it together?

The holiday season can be stressful, so it's critical to adjust expectations. Caregiver expert Amy Goyer describes caregiver burnout, saying, "The prolonged stress builds up, we are robbed of energy, and sometimes we reach a point of total emotional, mental, and physical exhaustion. We may lose motivation completely or feel we just don't care about our loved ones, our other relationships, or our work. We may feel that we've lost ourselves in the vastness of caregiving and that nothing we can do will make a difference. If you feel like this most of the time, you may have reached burnout" (Goyer, 2015). The following tips may help caregivers weather the holiday season.

- As much as possible, maintain a similar routine for your loved one and yourself so that holiday preparations don't become stressful or disruptive. Changes to the daily schedule can increase disorientation and anxiety for those with cognitive impairment.
- Trust your instincts. Keeping past traditions alive, such as eating favorite holiday foods, visiting with family and good friends, or looking at family photo albums and heirlooms—activities that take advantage of long-term memory—can help a person with dementia connect to holiday celebrations. Determine how much you and your loved one can handle without feeling overwhelmed. Feel free to reschedule or decline invitations when needed.
- Music, whether seasonal or not, can cause a positive shift in mood. Try engaging the individual in singing along to familiar songs. It's important to remember that a particular melody that evokes a soothing memory for one person might be upsetting for another. Depending on the setting, it may be more practical to have ambient music playing in the background.

Jellied Snowball Cookies

Ingredients:

- 1/2 cup butter, room temperature
- 1/4 cup powdered sugar, plus extra for coating
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 1/8 cups flour
- · Pinch salt
- 1 tablespoon milk
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans
- 1/4 cup strawberry jam

Directions

- Combine butter and 1/4 cup powdered sugar in a large bowl with a hand mixer until smooth. Stir in vanilla. Stir in flour and salt. Stir in milk. Stir in pecans. Cover and chill 1 hour.
- 2. Preheat oven to 400°F.
- Roll dough into 2-inch pieces. Halve each ball. Make an indentation in the center of each half with your thumb. Place 1/2 teaspoon jam into the center of each half. Press two halves back together, pinching the seams and rolling between your hands until smooth.
- 4. Place on a baking sheet and bake 10 minutes.
- Transfer to a cooling rack. Roll each cookie in the extra powdered sugar, coating completely. Allow cookies to cool for 30 minutes. Then roll cookies in the powdered sugar a second time, coating completely.

- Caregivers need to take time for themselves whether it's having a break to go to a movie, taking a walk, meeting a friend for lunch, or having someone cook a meal or help clean the house.
 Paying attention to your own needs and getting support from others is of utmost importance.
- Be aware that the holidays may evoke memories of better times—not just for your loved one but for you as a caregiver. Talking with a close friend or a counselor often helps one manage the emotions that come with holidays and other special days. You can also find help for caregivers from the Family Caregiver Alliance, AARP, your local Alzheimer's Association chapter, or support groups through hospitals, mental health programs, and community support organizations.
